Dear Sylwia,

Thank you for letting us know. We have removed the material. In case there is other material that you feel infringes your copyright, please let us know. It would be wise to embed the copyright inside the image for the future, perhaps a watermark or text. Most of our images are found via Google web search such that we do not know the origin exactly nor the specific copyright if any.

Best regards,
Lance Lenoirre

Subject: DataPro Website Content

Dear Wizardry and Steamworks Team:

I am contacting you on behalf of DataPro International, Inc. ("DataPro") to report copyright infringing complaint.

Our Copyright team discovered portions of DataPro's Published Materials from the Internet on your website. DataPro is the author of the original content. This drawing of 'VGA/DB9 Cutout' was made by our employee in Seattle. DataPro has not granted other sites the right to use our content for any purpose. Specifically:

Original content URL: <https://www.datapro.net/products/vga-panel-mount-extension-cable.html>

duplicated on your site at the following link: <https://grimore.org/fuss/hardware>

I'm referring specifically to this photos:

https://grimore.org/_media/fuss/fuss_hardware_vga_port.png

https://grimore.org/_detail/fuss/fuss_hardware_vga_port.png?id=fuss%3Ahardware

DataPro respects the work of grimore.org and we trust that you did not intend to infringe upon our copyrights. We are flattered that you have chosen our content and we only would ask that we receive credit for our work. It could do this by linking this content to the original website: <https://www.datapro.net/products/vga-panel-mount-extension-cable.html> and by caption the image by: datapro.net . However if you disagree, I kindly ask you to remove this photo.

If you feel Wizardry and Steamworks is receiving this letter mistakenly or if you have any questions or concerns, I urge you to contact me. Thank you for your understanding.

Sincerely,

Sylwia Socha-Drozdiewicz
